Q4 2025 Fund Commentary

Commentary and opinions are provided by Beutel, Goodman & Company Ltd.

Market Commentary

Canadian equities rose during the fourth quarter of 2025, with the S&P/TSX Composite Index posting a return of 6.25% for the quarter. U.S. equities also rose over the quarter but at a slower pace, with the S&P 500 Index posting a return of 2.7%.

The performance of U.S. equities, as measured by S&P 500 Index returns, was driven by strength in the communication services, information technology and industrials sectors. The consumer staples and consumer discretionary sectors lagged through 2025, while the health care sector rose. Small- and mid-capitalization stocks underperformed their large-capitalization counterparts. Despite a strong 2025, market leadership was narrow, with the majority of gains coming from a small subset of mega-capitalization stocks exposed to artificial intelligence (AI). Notably, the top 10 contributors accounted for three-quarters of the S&P 500 Index's return, and the seven AI-linked stocks within this top 10 represented 65% of the index's return.

Performance

The Fund's exposures to Merck & Co. Inc., The Toronto-Dominion Bank (TD Bank) and Royal Bank of Canada contributed to the Fund's performance. Merck reported increased sales and provided a pipeline update by noting 80 active phase III trials, 15 of which were initiated in 2025. TD Bank announced an additional $6–$7 billion in share buybacks in September and reported better-than-expected revenue growth, operating leverage, credit quality and expense control. Royal Bank of Canada posted better-than-expected earnings driven by capital markets and wealth management.

Relative exposures to Kimberly-Clark Corp., NetApp Inc. and Masco Corp. detracted from the Fund's performance. Kimberly-Clark's announcement to purchase Kenvue Inc. was not well received by the market, leading to a decline in Kimberly-Clark's share price. NetApp reported better-than-expected results, but investors were concerned about the company's 2026 margins and rising memory prices. Masco saw lower sales, while profits were hurt by a lower volume and higher costs related to tariffs and raw materials.

At a sector level, stock selection in the financials and consumer discretionary sectors contributed to performance, as did an overweight exposure to the health care sector. No exposure to the energy sector also contributed to the Fund's performance. Stock selection in the materials and consumer staples sector and overweight exposure to the industrials sector detracted from the Fund's performance.

Portfolio Activity

The sub-advisor added to the Fund holdings in Amdocs Ltd. and increased holdings in PPG Industries Inc., CGI Inc., Kimberly-Clark and Boyd Group Services Inc. The Fund's holding in American Express Co. was sold, and the holding in TD Bank was reduced.

Outlook

Despite the uncertain macroeconomic environment and tariff threats in 2025, the financials sector was up in the fourth quarter of 2025. Credit provisions eased and valuations expanded, reflecting expectations for economic improvement in 2026.

Counsel Canadian Value Series A

Materials sector stocks followed gold prices higher, but, in the sub-advisor's view, this pricing was primarily driven by speculative buying in exchange-traded funds. Energy sector stocks rose, outperforming the commodity. According to the sub-advisor, this may be because of a more positive stance by the Canadian federal government on energy investment and increasing oil and gas production. The sub-advisor looks favourably on the federal government's initiatives to strengthen Canada's economic growth.

The thematic concentration around AI that has characterized U.S. markets adds to concentration and valuation concerns. Twelve of the top 20 S&P 500 Index contributors in 2025 were related to AI, accounting for nearly three-quarters of the index's returns. The narrowness of these gains worsens the risk for the index.

The sub-advisor has a positive outlook on the Fund's holdings. The Fund is fully invested, with ongoing opportunities in pockets of the market, including in the energy, industrials and consumer staples sectors.
