Q2 2025 Fund Commentary

Market Commentary

Fixed income markets rose over the second quarter of 2025. Financial markets were volatile following the U.S. administration's early April tariff announcements. However, investors were encouraged by a pause on the announced tariffs and improving macroeconomic conditions. The U.S. Federal Reserve Board (Fed) kept interest rates unchanged amid caution around U.S. trade policy uncertainty.

U.S. Treasury yields declined because of volatility but remained range-bound as markets reacted to an uncertain environment. Ten-year U.S. Treasury yields fell, ending June at 4.23%, only 2 basis points lower than where they began the quarter. In this environment, high-yield corporate bonds performed well, with the default rate ending the quarter below long-term averages. High-yield funds generally reported inflows to the asset class during the quarter.

Performance

The Fund's relative exposure to New Fortress Energy Inc., Seagate Technology Holdings PLC and Saks Global Enterprises LLC was positive for performance. At the issuer level, lack of exposure to New Fortress Energy was positive for performance, as the company reported lower-than-expected quarterly results. Overweight exposure to Seagate Technology and lack of exposure to Saks Global also had a positive impact.

Relative exposure to Nabors Industries Ltd., The Hertz Corp. and American Securities LLC was negative for performance. Overweight exposure to Nabors Industries was negative as the energy sector underperformed because of falling energy prices. Lack of exposure to Hertz and overweight exposure to American Securities also had a negative impact.

Security selection among B-rated bonds was positive for the Fund's performance, while security selection among BBB-rated bonds was negative. The Fund's cash position had a negative impact on performance.

At the sector level, security selection within the cable and satellite industry was positive for performance. Security selection in utilities was negative for performance.

At the regional level, security selection within the U.S. was positive for performance.

Portfolio Activity

The sub-advisor added a new holding in Opal LLC and increased an existing holding in Jefferson Capital Holdings LLC. A holding in Diamondback Energy Inc. was sold, while Matador Resources Co. was reduced.

Outlook

So far in 2025, corporate fundamentals like balance sheet health and free cash flows have been resilient, in the sub-advisor's view. The sub-advisor believes technical factors, such as supply and demand, have also been supportive. The sub-advisor expects these trends to persist, with periods of volatility surrounding the implementation of U.S. policies.

Following a series of interest-rate cuts in 2024, the Fed has held interest rates steady in 2025. The sub-advisor believes the Fed is likely to proceed with caution.

Counsel High Yield Fixed Income Series A

As of quarter end, the sub-advisor was focused on industry and company fundamentals, including balance sheet health and free cash flows. The sub-advisor was cautious of deeply distressed issuers. The U.S. high-yield default rate rose in June but remained well below long-term averages. Technical factors are solid, in the sub-advisor's view, with strong demand and supply that remains low by historical standards.

Risks to the sub-advisor's outlook include higher-than-expected inflation, policy missteps, a severe economic slowdown or recession, and heightened geopolitical tensions.
