Q3 2025 Fund Commentary

Market Commentary

Fixed income markets rose after stabilization following the U.S. administration's "Liberation Day" announcement. Investors were encouraged by a U.S. Federal Reserve Board (Fed) policy rate cut, improving macroeconomic conditions and resilient fundamentals. U.S. Treasury yields sold off amid volatility but rebounded as markets maintained positive momentum. The Fed lowered rates by 0.25% in September as labour market data softened.

The 10-year U.S. Treasury yield rose, then fell steadily, ending September at 4.15%, 8 basis points (bps) lower than where it began the quarter. High-yield corporate credit performed well as spreads ended the quarter narrower. The U.S. high-yield default rate ended the quarter at 1.39% (down 25 bps year-over-year), still below long-term averages. High-yield new issue supply was USD$122 billion, while high-yield funds reported inflows of USD$5 billion to the asset class.

Performance

Overweight exposure to Seagate Technology Holdings PLC and Nabors Industries Ltd. contributed to performance. Seagate posted positive quarterly results. A lack of exposure to Ambipar also contributed to performance.

Security selection among convertible bonds, within information technology and in the U.S. contributed to performance. Selection within BBB-rated securities and in the cable and satellite industry detracted from performance, as did cash positioning.

Portfolio Activity

The sub-advisor added Froneri Ltd. and increased Viasat Inc. Snap Inc. was sold and Hess Midstream LP reduced.

Outlook

Corporate fundamentals have been resilient and technical factors supportive. The sub-advisor expects these trends to persist with bouts of volatility around the implementation of the U.S. administration's policies. Following 2024 interest-rate cuts, the Fed held rates until September and are likely to continue cutting interest rates, in the sub-advisor's view.

The sub-advisor is focused on industry and company fundamentals, balance sheets and free cash flow, but is cautious on deeply distressed issuers. The U.S. high-yield default rate decreased in September and remains well below long-term averages. Technical factors are solid with strong demand, inflows and consistent new issues. Risks to the sub-advisor's outlook include higher-than-expected inflation, policy missteps, economic slowdown or recession and heightened geopolitical tensions.
